LO: To research someone who influence me for my biography.

Today, I would like you to research someone who you would like to create a biography about. Pick someone who really interests you and who you would like to find out more about. It could be an athlete, an author, a singer, a scientist, anyone!

Make sure you find out all the key information you will need for the biography. You will need their full name, date of birth, occupation, where they were born/ live, their childhood, inspirations and more.

To make it easy to follow, I would organise the information you find into sections so that when you come to write it, all your information will be gathered already.

Here are some ideas of who you could research if you're unsure:

Roald Dahl, David Walliams, Usain Bolt, Mo Farrah, Isaac Newton, Greta Thunberg, Barack Obama.

I'm looking forward to finding out who you are all choosing to write a biography about.
